Ambassador Rowny

The IG met to review preparations for the second round of negotiations. The delegation's instructions were approved, with the exception of the section on defining and counting throw-weight; the IG asked JCS and OSD to discuss their differences and circulate compromise language the following day. The Working Group's paper on definitions and counting rules was approved in principle for inclusion in the delegation instructions, although the Working Group was asked to review additional JCS comments. The IG also approved the Working Group's recommendations on the scheduling of reductions.

In addition, the IG directed the Working Group to move forward quickly on confidence-building measures and Phase II limits, and to consolidate START and INF papers on verification issues whenever practical.

The IG also discussed the issues of raising cooperative measures in the ABM Treaty Review. Because of the difficulty in constructing a concrete proposal in time for the review, the IG agreed that Ambassador Ellis should be informed that he would probably not receive instructions to raise this issue with the Soviets.
